STOCKS ARE HEAVY.

A NUMBER OF MATERIAL RECESSIONS
SIGNS ARE SCORED.

THE MARKET CLOSES WEAK.

Practically All of the Industrials
Are of This Tone—Speculation in
Bonds During Week Generally
Strong and Confident.

NEW YORK, April 29.—The market was heavy practically all day, and while a number of material recessions appeared the general railroad list suffered but fractionally. Stocks affected by the bill taking corporation franchises in this State suffered the most. Metropolitan lost over 4 points; Brooklyn Transit and Consolidated Gas nearly 4; Manhattan a point; but Third-Avenue was an exception, rising 2 points on small dealings, on the expectation that that company would bid for the underground franchise.

The traders were early sellers, in expectation of a bad bank statement, but they covered when the statement appeared, showing small changes, the reverse increasing one and one-third million dollars and loans decreasing about the same amount. The absence of communication between the weakness of local stocks caused the market to ease on again, closing weak.

London was a purchaser of a moderate amount of stocks. Among the strong spots were Pacific and Colorado Fuel and Iron, which advanced 4 $\frac{1}{2}$ and 1 respectively. Practically all the industrials were weak.

BONDS DURING THE WEEK.

Operations in bonds during the week were very tame, and the medium-grade bonds showed advances. The fact that several State laws have laws, impeding or enacting, permitting savings banks to invest in certain high-class railroad bonds, has tended to enhance the value of such mortgagess.

Speculation generally, too, was strong and confident, the absence of real stringency in the money market forcing the withdrawal of the funds into mortgages while return rate was interest.
